•The LBC beers are some of the rarest, highest ranked, and most sought after beers in the world; they are a favorite of chefs, cicerones, and collectors.

•Leelanau Brewing Company (LBC) makes 3 beers- Whaleback White, Good Harbor Golden, and Petoskey Pale.

•The beers are creations of beer negociant Charles Psenka and are brewed at Jolly Pumpkin (JP) in Dexter, MI by visonary brewer Ron Jeffries.

•The LBC beers are distinguished from the JP beers by being aged exclusively in large barrels of new French oak, whereas JP beers are aged in a variety of barrels.

•The beers are intentionally tart, in the centuries-old tradition of French and Belgian brewing. The tartness is derived from wild yeasts that spontaneously occurring in the French oak barrels.

•Aging in a cool, dark, quiet place will subdue the wild character and give the beers a detailed elegance.

•The LBC beers are some of the rarest, highest ranked, and most sought after beers in the world; they are a favorite of chefs, cicerones, and collectors.

•Leelanau Brewing Company (LBC) makes 3 beers- Whaleback White, Good Harbor Golden, and Petoskey Pale.

•The beers are creations of beer negociant Charles Psenka and are brewed at Jolly Pumpkin (JP) in Dexter, MI by visonary brewer Ron Jeffries.

•The LBC beers are distinguished from the JP beers by being aged exclusively in large barrels of new French oak, whereas JP beers are aged in a variety of barrels.

•The beers are intentionally tart, in the centuries-old tradition of French and Belgian brewing. The tartness is derived from wild yeasts that spontaneously occurring in the French oak barrels.

•Aging in a cool, dark, quiet place will subdue the wild character and give the beers a detailed elegance.

•The LBC beers are some of the rarest, highest ranked, and most sought after beers in the world; they are a favorite of chefs, cicerones, and collectors.

•Leelanau Brewing Company (LBC) makes 3 beers- Whaleback White, Good Harbor Golden, and Petoskey Pale.

•The beers are creations of beer negociant Charles Psenka and are brewed at Jolly Pumpkin (JP) in Dexter, MI by visonary brewer Ron Jeffries.

•The LBC beers are distinguished from the JP beers by being aged exclusively in large barrels of new French oak, whereas JP beers are aged in a variety of barrels.

•The beers are intentionally tart, in the centuries-old tradition of French and Belgian brewing. The tartness is derived from wild yeasts that spontaneously occurring in the French oak barrels.

•Aging in a cool, dark, quiet place will subdue the wild character and give the beers a detailed elegance.

•The LBC beers are some of the rarest, highest ranked, and most sought after beers in the world; they are a favorite of chefs, cicerones, and collectors.

•Leelanau Brewing Company (LBC) makes 3 beers- Whaleback White, Good Harbor Golden, and Petoskey Pale.

•The beers are creations of beer negociant Charles Psenka and are brewed at Jolly Pumpkin (JP) in Dexter, MI by visonary brewer Ron Jeffries.

•The LBC beers are distinguished from the JP beers by being aged exclusively in large barrels of new French oak, whereas JP beers are aged in a variety of barrels.

•The beers are intentionally tart, in the centuries-old tradition of French and Belgian brewing. The tartness is derived from wild yeasts that spontaneously occurring in the French oak barrels.

•Aging in a cool, dark, quiet place will subdue the wild character and give the beers a detailed elegance.

•The LBC beers are some of the rarest, highest ranked, and most sought after beers in the world; they are a favorite of chefs, cicerones, and collectors.

•Leelanau Brewing Company (LBC) makes 3 beers- Whaleback White, Good Harbor Golden, and Petoskey Pale.

•The beers are creations of beer negociant Charles Psenka and are brewed at Jolly Pumpkin (JP) in Dexter, MI by visonary brewer Ron Jeffries.

•The LBC beers are distinguished from the JP beers by being aged exclusively in large barrels of new French oak, whereas JP beers are aged in a variety of barrels.

•The beers are intentionally tart, in the centuries-old tradition of French and Belgian brewing. The tartness is derived from wild yeasts that spontaneously occurring in the French oak barrels.

•Aging in a cool, dark, quiet place will subdue the wild character and give the beers a detailed elegance.

•The LBC beers are some of the rarest, highest ranked, and most sought after beers in the world; they are a favorite of chefs, cicerones, and collectors.

•Leelanau Brewing Company (LBC) makes 3 beers- Whaleback White, Good Harbor Golden, and Petoskey Pale.

•The beers are creations of beer negociant Charles Psenka and are brewed at Jolly Pumpkin (JP) in Dexter, MI by visonary brewer Ron Jeffries.

•The LBC beers are distinguished from the JP beers by being aged exclusively in large barrels of new French oak, whereas JP beers are aged in a variety of barrels.

•The beers are intentionally tart, in the centuries-old tradition of French and Belgian brewing. The tartness is derived from wild yeasts that spontaneously occurring in the French oak barrels.

•Aging in a cool, dark, quiet place will subdue the wild character and give the beers a detailed elegance.

•The LBC beers are some of the rarest, highest ranked, and most sought after beers in the world; they are a favorite of chefs, cicerones, and collectors.

•Leelanau Brewing Company (LBC) makes 3 beers- Whaleback White, Good Harbor Golden, and Petoskey Pale.

•The beers are creations of beer negociant Charles Psenka and are brewed at Jolly Pumpkin (JP) in Dexter, MI by visonary brewer Ron Jeffries.

•The LBC beers are distinguished from the JP beers by being aged exclusively in large barrels of new French oak, whereas JP beers are aged in a variety of barrels.

•The beers are intentionally tart, in the centuries-old tradition of French and Belgian brewing. The tartness is derived from wild yeasts that spontaneously occurring in the French oak barrels.

•Aging in a cool, dark, quiet place will subdue the wild character and give the beers a detailed elegance.

•The LBC beers are some of the rarest, highest ranked, and most sought after beers in the world; they are a favorite of chefs, cicerones, and collectors.

•Leelanau Brewing Company (LBC) makes 3 beers- Whaleback White, Good Harbor Golden, and Petoskey Pale.

•The beers are creations of beer negociant Charles Psenka and are brewed at Jolly Pumpkin (JP) in Dexter, MI by visonary brewer Ron Jeffries.

•The LBC beers are distinguished from the JP beers by being aged exclusively in large barrels of new French oak, whereas JP beers are aged in a variety of barrels.

•The beers are intentionally tart, in the centuries-old tradition of French and Belgian brewing. The tartness is derived from wild yeasts that spontaneously occurring in the French oak barrels.

•Aging in a cool, dark, quiet place will subdue the wild character and give the beers a detailed elegance.